

LAND LOANS.

The Enterprise, in discussing the land loan question, fears that the borrower will suddenly be called on to settle, and unable to do so, will throw his land back on the Government, and if a large number of people do this a panic will ensue.

No man is going to relinquish his land for a loan of but 50 per cent. of its value, when he can save it paying but two per cent. a year.

The danger scented by the Enterprise is more imaginary than real. If A, having borrowed $5,000 on a farm worth $10,000, pays $100 a year for the use of the money, does the Enterprise suppose that he will ever be without the $100? If so, his neighbor B will take the farm and pay the interest.

Such a proposition would not go begging, and the Government, by exercising ordinary business care, will not have much land thrown back on its hands.

The main features of the scheme are opposed by the money lenders of Wall Street, the same men who are fighting Nevada on the silver question.

President Harrison in his journey of nearly ten thousand miles passed through twenty states and three territories. No other President ever made such an extended trip, and there is no ruler of any other country in the world, with the single exception of Russia, who could, in passing over the territory of which he was the chief, from one side to the other and return, make even one third of the distance.

The Genoa Courier says: It is stated that 23,000 hop vines have been set out in Mason Valley this Spring, and that the parties handling them understand the business. The industry will undoubtedly prove a success. Every Fall Indians from this State go to California and engage in hop picking. It is to be hoped they will soon find employment in this business in Nevada.

The New Orleans Grand Jury intimates that the lynchers would have done a good job had they strung up O'Malley, the attorney who did the dirty work for the Mafia society. There is a lawyer in this city who is anxiously waiting to see him hung in the hopes of succeeding to his place.

The Homer Index says of a recent trial at the county seat: It appeared as if every available man in the county was summoned either as a juror or witness in the celebrated case that absorbed the attention of our people during the week; and as for lawyers, they swarmed like blow-flies in a hash-foundry.

The Lassen Mail asserts that Dixon, who was sentenced to San Quentin prison for seven years for horse stealing, was local editor and part owner of the Advocate and quotes from the columns of that paper proof that the assertion is true.

The Walker river is overflowing its banks in Mason Valley and traffic between Wabuska and Pizen Switch is almost impossible. If the river continues to rise, passengers on freight for the Switch will have to go to Mason station several miles south of Wabuska.

The weather, a few days ago so warm and Spring-like has changed to a combination of Spring and Winter, with snow on the foothills and mountain tops and rain with fog in the valley.

N. H. A. Mason, sold the cattle which he took East at $4 45 per 100 lbs live weight, and says that they netted him $5 per head more than he could sell them for to San Francisco buyers.

These thunder showers will make a grand crop of flowers for Memorial Day services and the monument will be unveiled in a midst of perfume.
